EXPLANATO...

THIS VOLUME of portraits of men who are among the leading exponents in commerce, manufacture, art, science, literature, finance and religion of the Pacific Coast, was designed primarily as a reference volume for the use of the press, but will find its way into banks, counting rooms, homes of its subscribers and into the libraries of many interested in the history of the Pacific Coast. The publication is not eulogistic but merely matter of fact, the data being in condensed form, dealing only with the principal events of each life, thus differing from most biographical works dealing with contemporaneous men. To the student of physiognomy this book is invaluable, and even a cursory examination or a comparison of features, with the works of their possessors, cannot fail to impart to the veriest tyro a valuable knowledge of human nature and the art of judging character from the face. Herein we will find the likenesses of old friends and acquaintances, many of whom, perchance, have departed from earth, making their pictured memory doubly dear—a collection which could not be secured otherwise.

It has been impossible to include all men of prominence on the Pacific Coast, for no work of this kind can be complete, and in many cases names were unavoidably omitted owing to the impossibility of securing portraits or biographies. Over a year has been consumed in gathering the portraits herein contained, hence changes have frequently occurred in the data, which has been changed to conform to present conditions as far as possible.

The publishers desire to thank the photographers who have executed the photographs contained in this volume, chief among whom are Taber, of San Francisco; McAlpin, Aune and Moore, of Portland; Curtis and La Roche, of Seattle; Lynn, of Tacoma, and Libby, of Spokane.

INDEX TO PORTRAITS.

Pages 632, 633, 634 contain biographies of Pacific Coast Men (alphabetically arranged), whose portraits were desired, but which were not received at the time of the compilation of this volume.

ABBREVIATIONS:

Cal., California; Or., Oregon; Wash., Washington; Add., Address; Arr., Arrived. An asterisk before the name in the Index denotes that the person is deceased.

The address at the end of each biography represents the location of office or place of business of the individual or the institution enumerated in the sketch.
